Touch and Go

Lightning Seeds

A smile to break the ice
Can I know your name?
If you say no and it's touch and go
Nothing would have been the sameOh, was it star dust or just lust?
Well, one touch is just not enough
Faces change but somewhere in the passing crowd
The face you just can't live withoutNothing's changed but nothing seems the same
Remembering a thousand things I meant to say
The past's a sea of boys and girls who disappeared without a word
All friends of mine who had their time then drifted awayDelights, dizzy heights
Will you change your name?
If you say no and it's touch and go
Nothing's going to seem the sameOh, but the stars are out, they're shining down
They whisper through the passing clouds
Don't be scared the wind will come, blow you home
Don't be afraid 'cos you're not aloneNothing's changed but nothing seems the same
Remembering a thousand things I meant to say
The past's a sea of boys and girls who disappeared without a word
All friends of mine who had their time then drifted awayTell it to me one more time
Oh, 'cos I'll never get to feel the same way, tonight
I'll remember every line, every line
I'll never get to hear the same words not twiceNothing's changed but nothing seems the same
Remembering a thousand things I meant to say
The past's a sea of boys and girls who disappeared without a word
All friends of mine who had their time then drifted awayRemember all the Mersey skies on rainy streets
I spent the night with friends of mine
Who had their time then drifted away
