Letters

Jared Evan

Dear friend,
I wite this letter all for you to know
To mend
the trust you lost, the promises I broke
I know
You expected me to be a certain way
And I admit
I let you down, knowing gravity works for sureHey babe
It's true you don't want to talk to me no more
I pray
That we turn back to what we were before
Hey baby
The hurt I caused you only hurts me more
So I write
Hoping that this ink I leave won't be ignored(Chorus)
I'm sorry I kept you waiting, all up until now
I'm sorry you had expectations I never lived out
But I won't let you down anymore
No I won't let you down, WoooahDear dad
I waited here for you to pass the ball
So sad
Because the only thing you shot was alcohol
Hey mama
You always wanted me to change the world
And I can, If I do it my way with you standing by my side
And I know I've never been myself
I've always been someone else through your eyes
Now I'm stuck on the shelf
But I won't be here for long(Chorus)
I'm sorry I kept you waiting, all up until now
I'm sorry you had expectations I never lived out
But I won't let you down anymore
No I won't let you down, WoahLet all the words I write on every page
Help you understand how I've been feeling every day
You don't need to sympathize, I just hope you relate
I don't mean to take you down, but I'm going to before it's all over
I just wanted to show ya
I just wanted to tell ya
So here are my letters(chorus)

I'm sorry I kept you waiting, all up until now
I'm sorry you had expectations I never lived out
But I won't let you down anymore
No I won't let you down, Woah (Chorus 2x)
