Knife Goes In, Guts Come Out

Murder By Death

Maria's mixing up the poison in the bathroom combines blue and green and brown and black and red She puts it on the doorstep of her neighbor whose feet transmit the poison to her heart in the shape of a cross the bone grinds into her skin the blood starts circling in her heart the poison's sinking in The blood in her body is changing the capillaries are spreading the disease her blood starts to flow her heartbeat's getting low she starts to feel nothing
