Turn My Head

Duncan James

Cut me once again, feel my body shake
This time you said it all trying not to break
Yeah, your words let you down, there's no need to blame
I danced the fire bright
You really turned my head
With all the crazy, messed up things you said
And every time you speak, you lie so well
My heart lies broken at your feet
So let me confess 'cause I don't need to hide
To solve this mystery that you build on lie
Ooh, lay my burden down, it makes me feel so strange
Open up my heart and try and find love again
You really turned my head
With all the crazy, messed up things you said
And every time you speak, you lie so well
My heart lies broken at your feet

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/