Untouched And Intact

The Honorary Title

Maybe it's time to hold on to one side, one decision
Let go off the hand that holds me high above that great divide
And beauty is the ease required for you to understand
That single frame of animation
I think you know, I think you know
I realize when you wake up that sometimes
I appear unfamiliar but these prints can't lie
I realize when you wake up that sometimes
I appear unfamiliar but these prints can't lie
And these prints can't lie
Possessing all the features I've predetermined to objectify
Oh, effortless and rubenesque yet so perfectly aligned
And beauty is the ease required for you to understand
That single frame of animation
I think you know, I think you know
I realize when you wake up that sometimes
I appear unfamiliar but these prints can't lie
I realize when you wake up that sometimes
I appear unfamiliar but these prints can't lie
Nine or ten songs, I had let pass before
I had broke that first thought progression
There we were in the same restaurant
Grazing legs underneath the table
Sayin' I will always, always, I will watch over you
I will always, always, I will watch over you
Over you, over you
I realize when you wake up that sometimes
I appear unfamiliar but these prints can't lie
I realize when you wake up that sometimes
I appear unfamiliar but these prints can't lie
I want you back, this means untouched and intact
I want you back, this means untouched and intact
I want you back, this means untouched and intact
I want you back, this means untouched and intact

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/