Feel Alive

Katie Herzig

I feel your heartbeat
I feel the weight of all you leave behind
When all you loved has come undoneI know that words are fleeting
I know that you are grieving in your own divide
Holding out with the best of usBut I know that you're getting stronger
And I know that it's worth the time
You better believe that it will get better
That you'll wake up and feel aliveI know that it feels like it'll hurt forever
But we'll make it to the other side
And when you wake up you will remember
What it is to feel alive
To feel
I know that you are healing
I know that you are feeling every fear
Inside, without a place to run and hideIf I could show you one thing
It'd be the light that's on the other side
Holding out for the best of usBecause I know that you're getting stronger
And I know that it's worth the time
You better believe that it will get better
That you'll wake up and feel aliveI know that it feels like it'll hurt forever
But we'll make it to the other side
And when you wake up you will remember
What it is to feel alive
To feel
Because I know that you're getting stronger
And I know that it's worth the time
You better believe that it will get better
That you'll wake up and feel aliveI know that it feels like it'll hurt forever
But we'll make it to the other side
And when you wake up you will remember
What it is to feel aliveTo feel
To feel
To feel
