Purgatorying

Alanis Morissette

Entertain me for the tenth hour in a row again
Anesthetize me with your gossip and many random anecdotes
And fill every hour with activity or ear candy
Drop me off at intersections in any city metropolitanAnd keep me in this state
And keep me purgatorying
And sing me back to sleep
This is far more than I have bargained forStart every week with a breakneck urgent design
And end every speed day with my briefcase representing free time
Spending my fumes, my purchases become my lifeline
Please give my love to my family, I'll doubtfully be home at Christmas timeDon't disturb me in this state
Please leave me purgatorying
I'll be damned if I'm to wake
This is far more than I am equipped forYeah, I've held you up like a deity
Like you're the sole owner of wings
This unrequited tunnel of vision
And I wonder why I've not been writingPlease keep me in this state
Please keep me purgatorying
Please rock me back to sleep
This is love is more than, than I have bargained forI'll be damned if I'm to wake
This is far more than I'm equipped for
