Silent In the Morning

Phish

My glance is always darting, when I stroll the avenue
Avoiding all the obstacles that terrorize my view
And if you are there with me, I trust you to lead the way
When you're not I follow you, and always go astrayYou're silent in the morning, suspended in the trees
Lunch time comes you've found your voice, it brings me to my knees
The volume just increases, the resounding echoes grow
Till once again I bask in morning stillness I love soThe target that I shoot for seems to move with every breath
I tighten all my arteries and make one last request
Divine creation hears me, and he squashes me with fear
I think that this exact thing happened to me just last yearSilent in the morning
You found your voice that brings me to
Silent in the morning
You found your voice that brings me toSilent in the morning
You found your voice that brings me to
Silent in the morning
You found your voice that brings me to my kneesSilent in the morning
You found your voice that brings me to
Silent in the morning
You found your voice that brings me toSilent in the morning
You found your voice that brings me to
Silent in the morning
You found your voice that brings me to my kneesI cannot dismiss you, shelter you, speak with you
Smile at you, trust in me, laugh and brush you off, and I'd agree
