Empty Highway

Joan Armatrading

Watch the rain gently fall
Like the tears running down my face
Watch the rain gently fall
Like the tears running down my faceSometimes it feel like the sky' is violence
Sometimes it feels like nobody hears
Sometimes it fells like I'm on an empty highway
And I'm on a road to nowhere
I'm on a road to nowhereAs I watch the street lights flicker
Like the dying embers of your affection
As I watch the street lights flicker
Like the dying embers of your affectionSometimes it feels like we never kissed
I've got no interest in the push and pull of the tides
Who cares if the world stops spinning
Cos I'm a lonely number
Yeah I'm a lonely numberAs I lay me down to sleep
All the little birds and the bees
That would sing to all the lovers
They just pass me by Yeah yeah yeahEven in my dreams
Vivid colours turn to a grey scale
Even in my dreams
Vivid colours turn to a grey scaleAnd I turn to you and I ask
How can I make things better
And you say
You say it's gone
It's gone, its gone, it's over
And I stand outside in just my underwear
And I watch the gentle rain fall
Yeah watch the gentle rain fall
Yeah I watch the gentle rain fall down

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/