The L-Town Shakedown

Patent Pending

Friday left me hopeless
Saturday left me scared- Sunday drove me crazy Monday just reminded me that i'm still hereAnd every word you say is like a bullet to my brain I'm poised for the attack of words, but you're drawing blood again Call the FBI, get the CIA let them know that i'm alright, i'm coming back today it probably doesn't matter, they cut the search team long ago they said the case was hopeless and my family just let go the days are getting warmer, the ice is wearing thin i can't wait for these games to end, my new world to begin i need you now, like starlight needs the moon i have my wits about me and i swear i'm leaving soon so hold on for your life, cause it's a roller coaster's end tell me how much longer did you think i would pretendlet's go back to the start again back to the start again, back to the start again i can't hear you, back to the start again, back to the start again and every word you say, it's like a bullet to my brain let's go back to the start again, back to the start againFriday left me hopeless Saturday left me scared- Sunday drove me crazy Monday just reminded me that i'm still herei need you now, like starlight needs the moon
tell me how much longer did you think i would pretendso now it's back to the start again
i can't hear you
back to the start again
