Alive In the Fire

Under The Flood

Well don't blame me if I learned to walk before I flew
I don't blame you, Don't tell me that the world was owed to you
Well maybe that road wasn't right for you.
Cause I've seen the faces you've turned away, Don't call me a liar
I've been knocked down, I've been walked on, But I've stood in the fire.And here we all stand, folding our hands
Waiting for the chance (are you waiting for a chance)
To never look back again (to never look back again)
And fear won't find me afraid of falling down
We're not lookin down, You won't turn us aroundWell here it is another endless wave of TV made kings on parade
Living out a fantasy, so ungratefully because you never really had to bleed
Well I'm told you're in control, breaking the mold, you're bought and sold
You stole the sanctity of how it used to be, it's blasphemy[Chorus]There's a reason we were meant to be here
A reason we believeYou'll never be alone again we'll never be aloneAnd here we all stand, folding our hands
You'll never be alone.[Chorus]
We all stand with folded up hands prayin our plans will somehow see the end.
