Learning Who You Are

Chuck Suchy

Morning bells are ringing, its hazy everywhere
Dew is heavy on the ground, birds take to the air
Softly put the coffee on, thereâ€™s doughnuts in the jar
Funny how time goes by when youâ€™re learning who you are Shut the screen door lightly, head out for the day
The sun is shining brightly, youâ€™ll make it good you hope and pray

Chorus:
It was oh, so long ago, today was oh, so far
Funny how time goes by when youâ€™re learning who you are

Dinner bells are ringing, at the furrowâ€™s end she stands
With all the love sheâ€™s bringing, its oh, so good again
A smile upon her dusty face, all sheâ€™s so proud of Pleasantly reminding me the spirit lives in love

Chorus:
It was oh, so long ago, today was oh, so far
Funny how time goes by when youâ€™re learning who you are

Evening bells are ringing, itâ€™s dusty everywhere
Dew is heavy on the ground, fireflies take to the air
Shut the screen door lightly, supperâ€™s almost on
Have you had the best of days, I get lonesome when youâ€™re gone
The kids are waiting for your kiss, wrestling â€˜round with dad
Could you ask for more than his, itâ€™ the best lives youâ€™ve had
