Window to the World

Shawn Colvin

Neon flickers with a pale glow
And all the shadows that come and go
Sometimes I can hear
Them laugh and cryIn my lonely room with a view
I can't sleep and so I think of you
And watch the world as it passes by
I can't close my eyes
I can't close my eyesThis is my window to the world
All of the lonely boys and girls
Are a reflection in my eyes
Of me and youThis is my window to it all
I see the heroes rise and fall
This is my window to the world
And I can seeAs the night turns into day
Old ladies shuffle by and wave
And the kids sell drugs
To cars that slowly cruiseYoung lovers walk across my street
Oblivious to the refugees
And the lonely lost baby
That's me and you
I can't close my eyes
I can't close my eyesThis is my window to the world
All of the lonely boys and girls
Are a reflection in my eyes
Of me and youThis is my window to it all
I see the heroes rise and fall
This is my window to the world
And I can seeI can't close my eyes
Can't close my eyesThis is my window to the world
All of the lonely boys and girls
Are a reflection in my eyes
Of me and youThis is my window to it all
I see the heroes rise and fall
This is my window to the world
And I can seeThis is my window to the world
All of the lonely boys and girls
Are a reflection in my eyes
Of me and youThis is my window to it all
I see the heroes rise and fall

This is my window to the world
And I can seeThis is my window to the world
All of the lonely boys and girls
Are a reflection in my eyes
Of me and youOoh, this is my window to it all
I see the heroes rise and fall
This is my window to the world
And I can see
