

Look At Me Now

Bryan White

Here you are on the back of my mind again
Dont guess its gonna get any better
Is your memory ever gonna end
Or does it go on forever? I was the one when you left town
Said Id get along somehow
Didnt take long to find out
That I was wrong Look at me now, nothing but a whole lot of time on my hands
Look at me now, thought I wouldnt need you, now I understand
You said, I was never gonna learn, look at me now I was so busy looking out for myself
I know I must have took you for granted
I didnt want to make room for someone else
Didnt know love when I had it You were the one who set me free
But you can lay the blame on me
Come my way and youll see
That I have changed Look at me now, nothing but a whole lot of time on my hands
Look at me now, thought I wouldnt need you, now I understand
You said, I was never gonna learn, just look at me now Calling your name in the quiet of the night
Seeing your face every time I close my eyes
Its always the same, I keep hoping that you might Look at me now, standing here holding my heart in my hands
Look at me now, wishing Id told you, we could still start again
What Id give if you turned and look at me now Here you are on the back of my mind again

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>