Ragamuffin Man

Donna Fargo

Listen sweet child to the story I can tell
Told me by a butterfly who lives in a wishing well
The story of the raggedy man and the dark-eyed dog he rode
In the dreams of little angels between believing and being loved

She said somewhere by the sea
There's a smiling moon and a mango tree
Where on the ebony coat of a labrador named jojo
There rides the ragamuffin man

His hair is spun from a fine swan's down twine
With shiny ice blue diamond eyes
And his coat is made from multi-colored hand me downs
And jojo well he's been seen to fly

And I know somewhere by the sea
There's a smiling moon and a mango tree
Where on the ebony coat of a labrador named jojo
There ride the ragamuffin man

Ragamuffin man he speaks of a happy (ragamuffin man)
From his imaginery mind
He says that happiness is meant for those who love
And those who always let their kind light shine (shine)
Some say it's all imagination
But child I hate to tell you that's a lie
For I was taught to love you
By a wise old raggedy man
So like jojo I finally learned to fly

And I know somewhere by the sea
There's a smiling moon and a mango tree
Where on the ebony coat of a labrador named jojo
There rides the ragamuffin man

Lyrics submitted by Eva.

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/