

Nighttime

AYER

She tripped and fell year after year before learning just how to overcome it For years she let them talk for her, they said that after all she was mourning
Drown it out, break the rules
It's a black tar road, but I'll be your shoes
You're a star and they're missing you in the nighttime
A girl who once wore evening gowns was now intent to wear a frown for showing Emotion, common sense aside, she chose to let the world revolve around her
Drown it out, break the rules
It's a black tar road, but I'll be your shoes
You're a star and they're missing you in the nighttime
When the nighttime falls into place
You'll see a smile crawl on her face She's leaving now without a trace
She's going where the music plays
Drown it out, break the rules
It's a black tar road, but I'll be your shoes
You're a star and they're missing you in the nighttime

Lyrics provided by <https://damlyrics.com/>