New World

David Wilcox

I wrap around you skin to skin
We sleep inside this curl
And after how alone we've been
It's like a whole new worldMy heart had felt like years at sea
Freezing and afraid
Breathe the life back into me
Kiss me warm that wayNew world, big horizon
Open your eyes and see it's true
New world, across the frightening
Waves of blueOld world had attractions
But hunger in my soul
Resumes and power plays
Where lust was just controlRoll me over slowly
Warm, sun-baked sand
The ocean of my loneliness
Has carried us to landNew world, big horizon
Open your eyes and see it's true
New world, across the frightening
Waves of blueNew world, sun is rising
We were wise just to see it through
New world, second chance
For me, second chance for youA mile or more of shoreline
And no one else around
And the way my heart is pounding now
I feel as if we've foundNew world, big horizon
Open your eyes and see it's true
New world, across the frightening
Waves of blueNew world, sun is rising
We were wise just to see it through
New world, second chance
For me and youNew world
New world
