Here Comes the Knight

Van Morrison

On the road with my sword
And my shield in my hand
Pressing on to the new day
This love will surely last forever
This love will surely last alwaysIn the valley I see horsemen pass
Baby, baby, baby, they don't want this love to last
There's a battle for the throneAnd it's raging down in your soul
It says this love will surely last forever
This love will surely last alwaysI've been accused of truth and alchemy
I've been accused of speaking out for freedom too
I gave a demonstration in front of a crowd
A man saw my hands move and he began to shoutHere come horsemen through the pass
They say cast a cold eye on life on death
There's a battle for the truth
And it means to thine own self be trueAnd it says this love will surely last forever
This love will surely last always
