A Bitter End to Weeks Of...

Normal Like You

It's always he said she said
I don't wanna listen to your bullshit, anymore
The things you say imbed plastic images
I'm trying but it's hard to ignore
The false accusations you make
The fingers you point at my friends
Why point the finger at allWe can take that road
But it's a steep climb
And it seems that we lose so much more then we'll ever obtain
I can write that song
I'm guilty of blaming too
The drama we cause, all needs to come to an endIf there's only 2 weeks left, can't we put
All of this nonsense behind us
And try to smile a little bit more frequently
The air is stale around you i'm cold
And nobody cares anymore
It's time to tie up those loose ends
If there comes a time to let goWe can take that road
But it's a steep climb
And it seems that we lose so much more then we'll ever obtain
And I can write that song
I'm guilty of blaming too
The drama we cause, all needs to come to an endWe can take that road
But it's a steep climb
It seems that we lose so much more then we'll ever obtain
And I can write that song
I'm guilty of blaming too
The drama we cause, all needs to come to an end

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/