Runnin

Frank Stallone

She is the morning sun she is the gravity the kind of girl that makes the world stop its routine but love is not always roses hearts get broken and when my guard is down i know that she will leave when will i see that she just keeps on running like the end of the world is coming i, i don't know whats got her so afraid but i, but i know shes gotta get away cuz she just keeps on running, running through my mind, running through my mind again she left wont hold my breath for her return no man can count all the bridges that shes burned but i just keep on chasing, hoping, waiting ill always fight this war cuz lovers never learn ill never learn that she just keeps on running
like the end of the world is coming

i, i don't know whats got her so afraid
but i, but i know shes gotta get away
cuz she just keeps on running, running through my mind, running through my mind and if you just stay ill do whatever it takes to love you more (don't you know i will love you more) and if you slow down for a minute this could be the begining of what you've been searching for but you just keep on running
like the end of the world is coming i, i don't know whats got you so afraid but i, but i know you gotta get away but she just keeps on running, running through my mind, running through my mind running through running through my mind
running through running through my mind
running through running through my mind
but you just keep on running

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/