They Live

My Washing Machine

They live despite attempts to stop and destroy our dreams
They'll wish they never raised their hands to be our enemies
Fight through crowded halls of hate between these tears aflame
And show a love resting inside the heart of meI know, crucify my heart because I am not letting go
I know, everyone else is dying
Death no longer frightens me
I am a heart of gold, I'm not ashamed of my life and its legacyThis is right for me
They live, they suffer, they choose their destiny
They live, they prosper, in the end its worth everything
Fear is not an option, I won't have it in me, our hearts will endureIf we sacrifice everything
I know, crucify my heart because I am not letting go
I know, everyone else is dying
They live, they suffer, they choose their destiny
They live, they prosper, in the end its worth everything
