Everything Comes Around

Tom Cochrane

I've got a reason
And it sounds like this
Everything has it's season
Well let's bless it with a kiss babeI'll be there for you
I'll be your rainy day man
Everytime the devil laughs out loud
When we make our big plansAnd you might come to realize
What you haven't missed yet
When everyone's searching for fortune and fame
It's been right in front of you all of the timeEverything comes round and round
What goes up must soon come down
Just remember this my friend
The next time that it looks like rainI heard a rumbling
It was a frightening sound
We thought the world was crumbling
It was just our wheels spinning roundYou might see more action
Born in another age
You'll get more satisfaction
If you don't expect it that wayYou might come to realize
What you haven't missed yet
When everyone's searching for fortune and fame
Well it's been right in your face all of the timeEverything comes round and round
What goes up must soon come down
Just remember this my friend
The next time that it looks like rainEverything comes round and round
What goes up must soon come down
Just remember this my friend
The next time that it looks like rainI look down the street
And I see the young Matadors
The debutantes from Richmond
Decked out in their fine clothesIt's bred in the bone
A tireless search
The junkyard keeps whispering
"Who'll get there first"Yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah
Yeah, yeah, yeah, yeahEverything comes round and round
What goes up must soon come down
You just remember this my friend
The next time that it looks like rainEverything comes round and round
What goes up must soon come down

But just remember this my friend
The next time that it looks like rain
The next time that it looks like rain
The next time that it looks like rain, againEverything comes round and round
What goes up must soon come down
Just remember this my friend
The next time that it looks like rainEverything comes round and round
What goes up must soon come down
But just remember this my friend
The next time that it looks like rain
The next time that it looks like rain
The next time that it looks like rain
