Utopia

Brendan Perry

I feel greater than the sum of all my parts
A domestic beast with a hairy heart
Trapped within a walled suburbiaI've found my tastes are somewhat underground
Between the shadows and the cracks
I'm building my utopiaI need to break free from all that binds
That makes me old before my time
In this world of dystopia
My love is like a bright guiding light
Shining in the darkness of the night
The star of my utopiaIn the motion of the sea
In the air that we breathe
Can you feel me
In the stars and in the trees
In the sound of the bees
Can you hear meCaged golden memories
Time has come to show your true feelings
I know it's the only way to be
When the same old feelings come out of meI feel greater than the sum of all my parts
A space jockey from a distant star
Marooned upon dystopia
I've found my tastes are somewhat underground
Between the shadows and the cracks
I'm building my utopiaIn the motion of the sea
In the air that we breathe
Can you feel me
In the stars and in the trees
In the sound of the bees
Can you hear meIn our utopia
You will be queen
And I will be king
In our utopia
You will be free
To be whoever you want to be
