The Bear Prayer

Leather Tramp

Sprinklers, sparklers, holy water startlers,
Protect me from the mountain beast that haunts the era dreams.

Tall trees, dead leaves, sticks and stones and God please,
Show me how to fight with might and tell me when to run.

Strangers, dangers, lightsaber wielding rangers,
Smile when I step in line, don't mind when I'm gone.

Rundown, mountain town, where folks know I'm not from around,
Help me keep my sanity when I've been on my own.

[CHORUS]
My cry unto, the holy land
Go keep me dry, and take my hand
For I don't die, before I awake,
The earth's my heaven, the great escape.

Concrete, main street, city folk and novelty,
Make sure that I don't stay too long and keep it in my head.

Few seen, fly few between, back country land and mystery,
Make sure that I always stay too long and keep it in the heart.

[CHORUS]

[INSTRUMENTAL]

That yellow-gold, sunflower dress, those colour sunset's loneliness,
Still hit me where it hurts too hard, she's waitin' there back home.

Sunshine, alpine, family, friends, and good-times,
Remind me why I'm doin' what I'm doin', amen.

Lyrics Submitted by Yuri Komissarov

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/