Starting All Over Again

Bon Jovi

I've been waiting, standing in the dark for hours
Tryin' to find the faith and the power to get back home to you
It's been a long time, long time since I've seen your face
On and on I could not replace the fire that burns for youSo here's to the good times, here's to the bad
Here's to the memories that we all had
Here's to tomorrow, let yesterday pass us byTonight we'll be starting all over again
And it feels like the first time, now
Never feel this way again, starting all over againDo you remember, remember the odds we were given[
When we had nothing and we thought that was living?
Been such a long, long road, over thereHere's to our old friend who helped us get by Here's to the dreamers, may dreams never die
If we believe we can all keep the good times aliveTonight we'll be starting all over again
And it feels like the first time, now
Never feel this way againOh, oh, tonight we'll be starting all over again
And it feels like the first time, now
Know whenever we're together, my friends
It's like starting all over againTonight we'll be starting all over again
It feels like the first time, now
Never feel this way againOh, oh, tonight we'll be starting all over again
And it feels like the first time, now
Know whenever we're together, my friends
It's like starting all over againI've been waiting, standing in the dark for hours
Tryin' to find the faith and the power
Starting all over again

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/