CASTLES

The Paramedic

I'm just skimming stones against the lake
While my dreams pass me by
'Cause I've never known what to make of life
But I guess I'm willing to try
Sometimes it's better and sometimes it's worse
Sometimes it heals and sometimes it hurts
So hail to the morning
Wherever it dawns down on me
'Cause it's now that I get to thinking
Some castles lie way beneath the sea
You always said that it would be
Such a long summer
And now it's here and I can break
The ice on this cold water
Sometimes it's better and sometimes it's worse
Sometimes it heals and sometimes it hurts
So hail to the morning
Wherever it dawns down on me
'Cause it's now that I get to thinking
Some castles lie way beneath the sea
So hail to the morning
Wherever it dawns down on me
'Cause it's now that I get to thinking
This life's a mystery
So long live the moonlight
Wherever it dawns down on me
With the strength to part the ocean
I'll find my castle lies way beneath the sea
