Maryanne

The Snowdroppers

The doctors, the lawyers, and your children
Papers they hold to your name
Joesph, I do sometimes miss you
The halls and the kitchen
Are not quite the same

Why did you leave me this way?
Why did you leave me this way?
You left me with such sorrow
You left me such pain
And I can't be bitter
But I won't put roses on you grave

Memories like fingers without feeling
Letters I wish I would write
Your grandson, oh, how he loved you
One thing in common
You both said goodbye

Why did you leave me this way?
Why did you leave me this waay?
Why did you leave me this way?
You left me with such sorrow
You left me with such pain
And I can't be bitter
But I won't put roses on your grave
