Raggedy Ann

Jimmy Dickens

These hand me downs I am wearing
Are worn at the knee, color faded, hey
And all the little children are laughing
I'm trying to find a reason to keep from cryin', heyI'm just a little girl, I'm Rageddy Ann
Making believe I'm happy, hey
Rageddy Ann, falling apart at the seamsAnd tears that I have covered with patches
Red and yellow patterns left in an old matches, hey
Where I have them sewn with black stitches
Are made exposed to be soiled and tattered, heyI'm just a little girl, I'm Rageddy Ann
Making believe I'm happy, hey
Rageddy Ann, falling apart at the seamsSo when did I get so broken, I wouldn't notice
Everything just break away from me
Hey, when did I get so broken, I wouldn't notice
Everything important leaving me
Falling apart at the seamsAnd all the busy people keep walking away
Like they can't see me or anything, hey
Everyday it gets a little harder
To believe in magic and people, heyI'm just a little girl, I'm Rageddy Ann
Making believe I'm happy, hey
Rageddy Ann, falling apart at the seams
Falling apartFeel so lonely, yeah
Feel so [Incomprehensible], yeah
