Machine Gun

Andreas Mattsson

I saw a savior, a savior come my way
I thought I'd see it in the cold light of day
But now I realize that I'm only for me
If only I could see, return myself to me
And recognize the poison in my heart
There is no other place, no one else I face
The remedy will agree with how I feel
Here in my reflecting, what more can I say
For I am guilty for the voice that I obey
Too scared to sacrifice a choice chosen for me
If only I could see, return myself to me
And recognize the poison in my heart
There is no other place, no one else I face
The remedy to agree with how I feel
