Rise Against

With your eyes, glazed and half-smiled
Explain to me the details
Of your God given rightYou point your finger
In my face but you can't remember
What you did last nightIt's all fun and games till
You try to justify
It's all well and done till
You question the choices in your lifeJoin all the billions
Of victims who prescribe to
This mediocre lifeWith all these years
Half of them are still looking for something
That you'll never findIt's all fun and games till
You try to justify
It's all well and done till
You question the choices in your lifeIn your life
In your lifeIt's all fun and games till
You try to justify
It's all well and done till
You question your choices in your life
