Starman

John Stewart

If children never were hurt
No reason for babies to cry
If nobody ever was hungry
And no one you loved ever diedAnd nobody ever was heartless
And nobody ever was cruel
And everyone got all their wishes
And only the good would ruleAnd these are the dreams of the Starman
Even if he never is heard
Oh these are the dreams of the Starman
Forever the keeper of wordsIf religions never were righteous
Believing that they are the one
If ever there was never a reason
Ever to carry a gunAnd these are the dreams of the Starman
Even if he never is heard
And these are the dreams of the Starman
Forever the keeper of wordsIf we would just live all our own lives
And leave other people alone
And those who just love one another
Would not be the targets of stonesThen these are the dreams of the Starman
Even if he never is heard
Oh these are the dreams of the Starman
Forever the keeper of wordsAnd these are the dreams of the Starman
Even if he never is heard
And these are the dreams of the Starman
Forever the keeper of words
