Reasons

New Found Glory

You can steal my eyes
Carve them out, I don't even need them
I don't wanna see anyone other than you
You cover your face
You're afraid to see the outcome
It's more than anyone person can bare
You take me for granted
You take me for reasons known only by you
You take me for granted
You take me for reasons known only by you
Pierce my heart, it useless
I don't even really need it
It belongs to nobody other than you
You can cut off my tongue
I'm speechless, a defeatist
And I'm wasting away, to nothing at your feet, so
You take me for granted
You take me for reasons known only by you
You take me for granted
You take me for reasons known only by you
If my heart is made out of gold
Than why does it feel like I'm here all alone?
And you take me for granted
You take me for reasons known only by you
I'm hollowed out, can't you see?
You've ripped out my soul right from under me
Have little to show for anything
It's everything that you have hoped for
You take me for granted
You take me for reasons known only by you
You take me for granted
You take me for reasons known only by you
If my heart is made out of gold
Than why does it feel like I'm here all alone?
You take me for granted
You take me for reasons known only by you

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/