Close Range

16 Frames

First you fall in love then you make
When you've had enough you start to fake it
With someone on the phone
But you're not listening and she's not coming homeRemember when you met so picture perfect
She's meeting all your friends because it's worth it
And they can only see what you cannot see
The things you won't believeThen you wake up to the big change
To the break up done at close range
And that love is such a cruel thing
What you want you got but you can't hold on anymoreYou ask her what is wrong, she can't explain it
It's something that was strong just started fading
But every thing's alright and you believe her
She turns off the lightsWhen the morning comes it's when it hits you
She's standing all alone saying she'll miss you
There's someone at the door, because she's leaving
You fall into the floorThen you wake up to the big change
To the break up done at close range
And that love is such a cruel things
What you want you got but you can't hold on anymoreI said best of luck
They said easier than done
Best of luck, I said easierThen you wake up to the big change
To the break up done at close range
And that love is such a cruel thing
What you want you got but you can't hold onThen you wake up to the big change
To the break up done at close range
And that love is such a cruel thing
What you want you got but can't hold on anymoreYou can't hold on anymore
You can't hold on anymore
What you want you got
You can't hold on anymore
