Drift Off

Anthony Melillo

Sitting in a room and then your mind drifts off,
And you try to swim to shore but you sink deeper into though.
Youre screaming for help but just get water in your mouth
You gotta go with the wave and try to figure things out.What if, what if the world had never ever know of me?
If a boy with such big dreams had never came to be.
But whats the point in dreaming if theres no one to believe in what you dream?
And then you fall back in the water, just to find out it was never what it seemed.
Maybe its only me.Standing on a corner and Im waiting for a ride
And then I realize no ones coming cause they dont know Im alive.
I look down the street see people running from a wave,
It sweeps me off of my feet and right back into low tide.What if, what if the world had never ever know of me?
If a boy with such big dreams had never came to be.
But whats the point in dreaming if theres no one to believe in what you dream?
And then you fall back in the water, just to find out it was never what it seemed.
Maybe its only me. Yeah.

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/