City Lights

Jeff Jacobs

Waking up in the morning smell the cold outside stretch my arms out wide
Reachin' out for your body
But there's nothing there
So I sit and stareAt the glass of wine
I had last night
To ease my troubles
And take my mind off of you
And the things you do.
Though it cooled me off
And numbed my veins
That ain't enough
To forget the wayMakin' love
Wasn't' half as good as lyin' there together
In the dark
Just fallin' asleep to the rhythm and beat of your heart.Goin out in the evening
Got so many friends
But they're just pretend
Always sellin' me something
They say let her go
But they'll never knowWhen the city lights
Go dark at night
And the world's asleep
I roam the streets like a fool
For another you
And after all that noise
And all those crowds
I sit alone
Rememberin' howMakin' love
Wasn't' half as good as lyin' there together
In the dark
Just fallin' asleep to the rhythm and beat of your heart.(Guitar Solo)Would you lie to me
My Angelie
Don't end this dream
I'll wake up on my own
And forget aboutJust lyin' there together
In the dark
Just fallin' asleep to the rhythm and beat of your...
