What Do We Know

Everon

Since the first days
Of mankind's existence
We have spent most of the time
Searching for answers
To all of the questions
Going around in our mindsWhat do we know
About the plans life makes for us
What do we know
About what we really are
What do we knowNow and then
There were people pretending
They had all the answers in store
Prophets, magicians
Experts and politicians
What were they ever good forHow could they know
What tomorrow holds for us
What do they know
That we don't know ourselvesBring on all those experts
Let them show what they have got
Until we come to the conclusion
It is better they shut upHot air is all they can offer
Their empty hands have nothing to show
Hot air packed in technical terms
To explain what they don't knowExpert predictions
We all used to trust
Have led us into more than one mess
To me there's just one
Logical explanation
In fact they're just making a guessHow could they know
What tomorrow holds for us
What do they know
That we don't know ourselvesBring on all those experts
Let them show what they have got
Until we come to the conclusion
It is better they shut upHot air is all they can offer
Their empty hands have nothing to show
Hot air packed in technical terms
To explain what they don't knowCan you imagine
Living in a world without mysteries

How would that feel
All I can say is
I honestly hope
Some secrets remain unrevealedWhat do we know
About the plans life makes for us
What do we know
About what we really are
What do we know
