Old Friendships

Operation Ivy

Now I see I'm all the things
I laughed at yesterday
You still look at the world around you
From a thousand miles awayWe sat back and laughed
Ignored by the world we attacked
Everything seemed so fake and plastic
You were so cool and sarcastic
You looked over your shoulder
And I was always there
We went easy and stepped lightly
In a world so different from usFall back, spring forwardI walk into a store
Suddenly it's five years before
I'll be buying cigarettes
And remember how you laughed at stress
Now it seems so clear
Didn't show my face for two years
Baby I found out
What being so different is all about
Sometimes I think
You don't know what you are
Sometimes I think
Nothing ever changed, at least so far
Now I see I'm all the things
I laughed at yesterday
You still look at the world around you
From a thousand miles away
