You'll Only Break His Heart

Jeremy Messersmith

You hate the cold
But love the winter
Minnesota night, late November
So take his hand but keep your distance
Let the fallen snow hide your secretsYou'll only break his heart
You'll only break his heart
You'll only break his heart
You'll only break his heartIt's nice enough, you crave adventures
Where there once was fire, only embers
And you don't want to play the villain
What he doesn't know sure won't kill himYou'll only break his heart
You'll only break his heart
You'll only break his heart
You'll only break his heartHe's out of touch, he's last year's fashion
Lately when you kiss there's no passion
But don't tell him you found a lover
Lie awake at night, dream about herYou'll only break his heart
You'll only break his heart
You'll only break his heart
You'll only break his heartSo pack your things while he's still sleeping
He won't understand all your reasons
Don't look back when you're leaving
No, don't look backYou'll only break his heart
You'll only break his heart
You'll only break his heart
You'll only break his heart
