Hallelujah

Sam Heilig

The guilt inside these hands convicts me yet

A broken heart it yields a heavy load

10,000 angels singing glory above
And grace repeats the chorus here below:

Hallelujah

Hallelujah

When the mountains crumble and the oceans dry up even still hallelujah

...

The scars we hide reveal the memory of the fall from heights from which we came

But the promise deep inside screams of love and the empty tomb echoes the phrase, oh the empty tomb it echoes the phrase:

Hallelujah

Hallelujah

When the stone is rolled away, redemption rises up let me sing hallelujah

...

Hallelujah

Hallelujah

When the earth gives way and the dust returns to dust even still hallelujah

Even still hallelujah

...

(End)
