Engulfed

Brothertiger

Say what you want, these eyes couldn't capture
Forgetting myself as the days run faster
Connecting the end of a life to another
Send the echo of an essence we discoverComing to the edge of the forest of the deep world
Looking at the world through a new light
Following the fallen leaves that drift all on the water
I can hardly recognize what I am on the insideYou could stare and I don't care enough for anything in this life
These days I'm unaware of what's really deep inside
You could stare and I don't care enough for anything in this life
These days I'm unaware of what's really deep inside
Fate falling, I'm engulfed in emotion
Your careless calling is a life with devotion
The sun so, deviates from the steady sun
I'm flooding with difference, as the echo races all aroundComing to the edge of the forest of the deep world
Looking at the world through a new light
Following the fallen leaves that drift all on the water
I can hardly recognize what I am on the insideYou could stare and I don't care enough for anything in this life
These days I'm unaware of what's really deep inside
You could stare and I don't care enough for anything in this life
These days I'm unaware of what's really deep inside
The air
The air
The air
The air
The air
The air
The air
The air
The air
The air
The air
The air
