The Lake

Denai Moore

Laid my pennies by the lake
Hoping the water could buy me fate
For all of my mistakes
That I have madeLaid out memories by the lake
Hoping that they could sail away
Away from my mind
Theres a piece of you left behindI still see you there, out in the lake
Right in the middle where, it's all faint
The less I care the more that you'll fade
I still see you there out in the lake
Laid a letter by the lake
With all the worlds I want to say
And I know they'll be no reply
But I'd still want you to know whyI still see you there, out in the lake
Right in the middle where, it's all faint
The less I care the more that you'll fade
I still see you there out in the lakeYou're sinking down, like a pebble in the lake
Like the ghosts of my past, thats faded away
And now I'm left with nothing but a memory
I still see you there, out in the lake
Right in the middle where, it's all faint
The less I care the more that you'll fade
I still see you there out in the lake
