The Three Day Man

The Waterboys

I'm the three day man, it's three days too long
Everything is in its right place but something is wrong
Time is on wheels, my legs shake
You have to live with every decision that you make

But that doesn't mean that I'll be your slave
Doesn't mean you're here to stay, doesn't mean we're friends for life
You know I want you, you know that I love you
But I'll never need you anyway
I'll never need you anyway

Sixes and sevens, oh, how it rains
Sleep is a station, life is a train
People snatch instinctively for whatever crutch they need
But I promise not to abuse you, if you don't abuse me

And that means that I'll be never your slave
It means that you're not here to stay, it means we'd never be friends for life
You know how I want you, you know that I love you
But I'll never need you anyway
I'll never need you anyway

And that means that I'll be never your slave
It means you're not here to stay, it means we're not friends for life
You know how I want you and you know that I love you
But I'll never need you anyway
I'll never need you anyway

Never need you anyway
I'll never need you anyway
I'll never need you anyway
I'll never need you anyway
I'll never need you

Lyrics powered by lyrics.tancode.com written by SCOTT, MICHAEL Lyrics Â© Warner/Chappell Music, Inc.

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/