Perfect Stranger

The Atlantics

I didn't have to turn around
I could feel him in the back of my brain
When I stepped into the crowd
Something told me that I'll meet you today
Your energy when you touched me
Lifted me off the ground
Your words to me are like music
I don't know who you are
All I really know is, there's something in your heart
That makes me feel it's a new start
All I really know is, there's something in your heart
Are you from another world?
I've never seen someone who looks like you
Beautiful stranger, how do you do?
Tell me, is there something I can do for you?
Your energy when you touched me
Lifted me off the ground
Your words to me are like music
I don't know who you are
All I really know is, there's something in your heart
That makes me feel it's a new start
All I really know is, there's something in your heart
Something, something, something
Oh, there's something, there's something, I can see it there
Something, something, something in your heart
Something, something, something in your heart
Something, something, something in your heart
Oh, there's something, there's something, I can see it there
Something, something, something
(Something in your heart)
I don't know who you are
All I really know is, there's something in your heart
That makes me feel it's a new start
All I really know is, there's something in your heart

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/