Rains

Pulling Teeth

I pray for rains to come and wash you all away erase the stains from this place and put a smile on my face
I don't need you, i don't need you
I don't want you here
there will be quiet after the storm when you're no longer in my way I never used to be like this but you've filled me with such hate
I don't need you, i don't need you
my tolerance for ignorance it lessons every day infatuation with regression
