Oleander

Higuera

if you were my friend, you would let me in again you already know i won't understand if i wouldn't break all the promises that i made,

you already know i won't understand
because i'm living upstairs with my broken heart family
you push and you pull,
you break it apart,
you never get too far away from my heart

and i don't wanna sleep with my broken heart family
you push and you pull,
you break it apart
you never get too far away from my heart

you could say all the things you want to say you already know i won't understand i might have to draw over the bridge you find myself you already know i won't understand
because i'm living upstairs with my broken heart family
you push and you pull,
you break it apart
you never get too far away from my heart

and i don't wanna sleep with my broken heart family
you push and you pull,
you break it apart
you never get too far away

because i'm living upstairs with my broken heart family
you push and you pull,
you break it apart
you never get too far away from my heart
and i don't wanna sleep with my broken heart family
you push and you pull,
you break it apart
you never get too far away

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/