

Caught By The Light

The Boxer Rebellion

Caught by the light aware but asleep
Never as close as the friends that you keep
Drifting away on one final breath
The further you climb, calm silhouette And takes you along, long, long, long
And takes you along, long, long, long Far from a world ailing to live
Far from the wreckage you were left in And the crossing is over where the righteous remain
In the memory it's deeper, survived by a name
The rest is sufficient, a midnight complaint
Left waiting in silence, left only to sleep
