Friends

If you had treated me right i would do everything that i could for you but you can't just come here tonight and expect me to do the things i used toI understand how good it feels to be with someone you know 'cause when you come inside it kinda feels like home but you can't just run away leaving my heart broke all of a sudden and come knocking the next day when you need some good lovingI know you've never found another love that feels so intimate but did you expect it to stay around when you acted like you just weren't into itIf you had treated me right
and expect me to do the things i used toI understand how good it feels to be with someone you trust 'cause when you come inside it kinda feels like love but you don't deserve me now you don't deserve me now you lost the best love that you ever found
