

She Will Sing

Benjamin Francis Leftwich

Couldn't be saved by no other one but you
Could you never make it out of the lie we were living through And you sing
And free with desire
Then we are heading home
As the sun is rising Sing to me, I feel I'm feeling nothing at all
Tell me where you're hiding
Tell me what you're crying for
Sing to me, I know you're feeling cold after all
You're looking for a way out
You could be the open door It takes a little time to believe it
Whatever it is you've found
But I believe all I see when you're singing to me now
They say that time is a feeling
They say there's a sound
'Cause I believe we're free when you're singing to me now
Tell me where you're hiding You're coming to me now like a bird flying out in the pouring rain
Can only hope you never change, at all When you sing
You're taking me higher
To another place
Where we rise above the choir Sing to me, I feel I'm feeling nothing at all
Tell me where you're hiding
Tell me what you're crying for
Sing to me, I know you're feeling cold after all
You're looking for a way out
You could be the open door
It takes a little time to believe it
Whatever it is you've found
But I believe all I see when you're singing to me now They say that time is a feeling
They say there's a sound
'Cause I believe we're free when you're singing to me now
Tell me where you're hiding It takes a little time to believe it (Sing to me)
Whatever it is you've found (Tell me where you're hiding)
But I believe all I see when you're singing to me now
Tell me where you're hiding They say that time is a feeling
I say there's a sound
'Cause I believe we're free when you're singing to me now
Tell me where you're hiding
