

New Discovery

The Crane Wives

I want to stand on the edge of the water
And see horizons stretch on forever
I want to know that there are lands
Not yet touched by human hands
I want to be the one
To find them.Sometimes I feel like I'm lost in the desert
And every dune is the same as the other.
I see my footprints in the sand,
So I know where I've been,
And these steps I take won't go to waste
If I'm moving towards something.I want to believe
There's something left for me,
A new discovery
Waiting for me.I want to kindle a love that doesn't age,
Even when all the years carve lines into your face.
Tell me I will be surprised
When I think I've memorized
Every touch and every thought
I want you to prove me wrong.
