

Super Symmetry

James Teej

Seeking our path inbetween
While the world spins at twenty degrees
Feeling like half of myself
All alone without somebody else
Forces constrict and unwind
Falling in and out of a line We're all moving faster and faster and faster
We're all moving faster and faster and faster
We're all moving faster and faster and faster
We're all moving faster and faster and faster Atoms collapse and collide
Like the time that we met you and I
What is the space inbetween?
To explain our super symmetry
Systems constrict and unwind
Falling in and out of a line We're all moving faster and faster and faster
We're all moving faster and faster and faster Systems conform and define
All the pathways between you and I
Forces constrict and unwind
Falling in and out of a line We're all moving faster and faster and faster
